THE ATTEMPTED ASSASSINA-TION OF PRESIDENT GARFIELD.

People of all parties thr

President's condition fluctuated so much for several days that his death was momentarily expected, and was so reported several times

The dreadful deed was done about 9,30 Saturday morning, in one of the waiting rooms of a depot in Washington just as the distinguished victim was passing to a train that was to convey him with various friends on his New England trip which was to have included the White Mountains, as the party was expected to pass through here on their way from that locality next Monday. Two shots were fired, the first striking his arm and the second entering his body near the liver. The President fell to the floor bleeding profusely, but assistance was quickly at hand and he was conveyed in a carriage to his residence, the White House, in less than an hour, guarded by soldiers and policemen and attended by terrific crowds, the distance being over a mile. Great excitement prevailed everywhere and the would-be assassim would undoubtedly have been tynched could be have been found, but he had been arrysted just as he was leaving the depon, taken to a police station and from there to jail in a very short time.

Charles J. Guiteau, the author era of insane murder appears to have sprung up.

Although the President's condition is greatly improved, yet he is liable to endure several crises, owing to the peculiar nature of his wounded liver and the fact that the ball can not be removed, yet ultimately it is thought he will recover as many others have under similar
